At least 24 students and a teacher of a private school at Nangal town in Punjab felt breathlessness on Tuesday due to suspected gas leak from a factory.

The Ropar Deputy Commissioner, Dr Preeti Yadav, constituted a committee to probe the incident.

She said that the students of Saint Soldier School at Nangal felt breathlessness, following which they were rushed to hospital.

The DC said that four to five students were now under observation while the others were discharged from the hospital. She added that a girl student was referred to the Post Graduate Institute of Medical Education and Research, Chandigarh, where her condition was stated to be stable.
